Snider Named As Editor Of Kentucky Kernel For Quarter; Conway Is Managing Editor

Betty Jane Pugh
Gets News Post
Next Period

Patricia Snider, Bloomfield junior, was chosen editor of The Kernel to succeed Bob Ammons, Lexington, at a meeting of the Board of Student Publications yesterday afternoon.

Selected to work with Miss Snider on the editorial staff were Betty Jane Pugh, Lexington junior, as news editor, and Robert Conway, Ashland junior, as managing editor. They will succeed Jim Wooldridge, Hopkinsville, and Harold Winn, Marion.

Jay Wilson, Mayfield junior, was elected business manager, the position formerly held by Bob Hillenmeyer, Lexington.

George Barker, Lexington, was chosen by Wilson to serve as advertising manager. He worked this year as an advertising staff member.

STAFF MEMBERS

Appointed by Miss Snider are Bob Adair, Lexington, sports editor; Louis Sawin, Lexington, make-up editor; Celia Bederman, Lexington, assistant managing editor; and Mary Norma Weatherspoon, Fulton, assistant news editor.

Serving for the past two years as reporter and assistant news editor, Miss Snider has been president of Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honorary fraternity, and a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman scholastic honorary.

Miss Pugh, who has also served during the past two years as a reporter and assistant news editor, has served as a member of the social committee of the Student Government association, as president of Alpha Xi Delta, social sorority, and as secretary of Theta Sigma Phi. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Owens, Panhellenic council and the Women's Administrative council.

REPORTER CONWAY

A journalism junior, Conway is enrolled as an advanced R. O. T. C. military student and has served as a reporter on the Kernel staff.

Wilson, the newly elected editor of the summer Kernel, is a member of Lances, Patterson Literary society, and a former member of the men's glee club and the radio studio staff.

Subject to ratification by the Student Legislature, the new staff will assume office immediately with exception of the business manager who will begin duties September 1.

Miller To Conduct Open Class Today

Professor Florence Miller, instructor in Social Work, will conduct the next to the last open class of the semester, and will lecture on "The Delinquent Child in the Community" the fifth hour in room 336, McVey Hall, this afternoon.

The attendance to open classes has been good; 226 visitors have already visited these classes and there will be two more. There were ten open classes last semester and thirteen this one. According to a report turned into the arts and sciences faculty, Monday, total attendance to date is 621 visitors.

Second Battalion To Parade Today

Continuing the spring parades of the military department, the second battalion, companies E, F, and G will drill the seventh hour today on the University parade grounds in front of the Administration building. Sponsors and half the band will participate.

Letters To Student's Parents Tells Of UK's War Efforts

"The University is cooperating in the war effort in many ways, but chiefly by establishing a regular Summer Quarter to permit students to finish college sooner," stated President Herman L. Donovan of the University of Kentucky. In letters sent to parents of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors now enrolled at the University.

The University wants students to graduate or to go so far as possible with their college work." The government wants this. "We believe most parents do," President Donovan added.

President Donovan believes that now, more than ever before, there is wide spread need for college men and women, both at home and on the armed fronts. Thousands of young men and women will be needed in the next few years to take the places of men in the schools, shops, banks, government agencies, and perhaps on the farms and in the factories.

He concluded, "Most of you will find it possible to send your son or daughter to the University this summer. We hope that you will. It will help the University if you do but far more important—it will help your country."

The letter enclosed a sheet showing how the Summer Quarter affects the time of graduation.

Normally a high school graduate would enter in September, 1942, and would graduate in June, 1946, but under the war program he enters June 11, 1942, and finished June, 1945.

Freshman, and sophomores, already enrolled will be able to graduate a full year ahead of normal times. And juniors entering the senior class in June will graduate in March, 1943.

YW, YM CABINETS PLAN RETREAT

Members Will Go To Camp Saturday

YW and YM cabinet members will leave at 1 p. m. Saturday for a week-end retreat to Camp Daniel Boone on the Kentucky river.

The program of the retreat, which is an annual affair for old and new officers and committee heads, is three fold: to discuss activities of the past year, to make plans for the ensuing year, and to talk about the philosophy on which the associations are built.

Committees for the week-end, according to Miss Anne Faw Morrow, YW secretary, are: camp, Jane Birk, Frances Kendall, and Robert Humphreys; food, Mary Frank Wiley, and Dorothy Collins; program, Mildred Murray, Betty South, Robert Davis, and John Long; recreation, Carolyn Spicer and Elliott Peel; and worship, Betty Aldrich and T. Fred Irwin.

Others who will attend the retreat are Glenn Mohney, James Hurt, Duane Van Horn, George Shelley, William Campbell, George Terrel, Robert Sprangers, Agnes Smith, Anne Crutcher, Sarah Anne Hall, Margaret Graham, Jennie Puckett, Margaret Hatcher, Mary Rion, Dorothy Jack Ecklar, Marjorie Palmore, William Salmon, Dorothy Paul, Jean Ewer, Joyce Rogers, Jeanne Lancaster, and Helen Harrison, accompanied by Miss Morrow and Bart N. Peak, YM secretary.

The group will return Sunday afternoon.

EXCUSE CLASSES FOR INAUGURAL

Afternoon Sessions May Be Dismissed

Dismissal of classes on the afternoon of May 6 so that students may participate in the inaugural ceremonies for President Herman Lee Donovan was planned yesterday, and an invitation was extended to the student body to join in the colorful ceremonies.

Four students have been selected to march in the inaugural procession, and special sections have been set aside in the stadium for the seating of the student body. Dean Thomas Poe Cooper who heads the committee in charge of arrangements announced.

Hundreds of visitors from all parts of the country will be present for the ceremonies, and the academic procession will present all the pageantry for which occasions of this nature are renowned.

A complete program of the events scheduled for the inauguration will be released soon.

Men's Glee Club Sings At Luncheon

Forty members of the University Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Donald W. Alton, sang at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lexington Kiwanis Club at the LaFayette hotel Tuesday.

The program included Noble Cain's "Come to Me In My Dreams," a Waring arrangement of "All through the Night," Ohara's "Old King Cole," two folk songs, "Erie Canal" and "Kemo Kimo," two Negro spirituals, "Boies Come A-Knitting" and "Ready When He Comes," and Maiott's "Pledge to the Flag."

Al University military classes will be examined. Pershing Rifles will drill at 5 p. m. Monday, May 18, for inspection.

Concluding the inspection will be the annual field night. These exercises will consist of the ROTC graduation exercises, regimental review, exhibitions, presentation of trophies, administration of oaths of office and presentation of commissions, and graduation parade.

Committee Says Vote Is Invalid For Student Presidential Race; Votes To Be Cast April 28

KERNEL, UNION TO HOLD ANNUAL DRIVING CONTEST

Campaign Opens For All Students Tuesday Morning

Co-sponsored by the Kernel and the Student Union, a Safety Driving Campaign will open Tuesday morning. This campaign will be conducted in cooperation with the American Automobile Association, the Kentucky Highway Patrol, and the National Safety Council from April 28 to May 1.

Purpose of this campaign is to test University students' driving ability and road knowledge. Headquarters will be located in room 205, 204, and 207 of the Union building.

Road tests will be given under the supervision of state highway patrolmen in a dual control car which has been donated by the AAA through the Bluegrass Automobile Association, which is a local branch.

Two sound movies will be run continuously in the Union and written tests will be given to students. Reactions of drivers will be tested on a driveometer, and students will be given tests for ability to judge distance and for selective reaction.

On the activities committee in charge of the campaign are: Ivan Potts, chairman, Robin Martin, Jane Meyers, Martha Yates, Bob Schneller, Martha Key Cross, Wynnette White, Diddy Jones, Helen Barnes, Clyde Hill, Chesley Davidson, Esther Friedman, Harold Estill.

All University military classes will be examined. Pershing Rifles will drill at 5 p. m. Monday, May 18, for inspection.

Concluding the inspection will be the annual field night. These exercises will consist of the ROTC graduation exercises, regimental review, exhibitions, presentation of trophies, administration of oaths of office and presentation of commissions, and graduation parade.

The last war discussions panel will be held at 4 p. m. today in the Music room of the Union building with Dean Henry H. Hill as chairman.

The chorus will be composed of

Marvin Akers, Jane Birk

They have been officially announced as new vice-presidents of the Student Government Association.

True to Kentucky tradition the Student Government presidential election Tuesday was contested and after the verbal shooting had died away the election board ruled that a new balloting would be held. Next Tuesday students will again be given a chance to choose between Jim Collier and Givens Dixon.

Marvin Akers and Jane Birk, Independents, were declared victors in the vice-presidential election which was ruled valid.

Official statement of the election committee said:

The election committee was unable to declare a winner in the presidential race of the Student Government Association because of the fact that a great number of ballots were not voted properly and a dispute arose as to these votes.

It was felt that in fairness to both candidates a new election should and will be held on April 28, 1942, in conjunction with the election of members to the legislature.

Marvin Akers was declared the victor in the men's vice presidential race and Jane Birk in the women's vice presidential race.

Explicit instructions will be given to voters, and students have been asked to read the ballots carefully so that none will be deemed void. Rules announced for the previous election will be followed for Tuesday's balloting.

Tying Up The Loose Ends

This is the last KERNEL, which I will edit. Starting next Tuesday, the new staff will take over, and I will be back among the ranks of the writers, not the writers.

And so today, as is the custom, I am going to wind up all the loose ends in one last editorial and then bow out.

First, if the reader will permit the inuodesty, I would like to ring in a personal note. I would not do it except that several persons have asked me why I am not going to do THE KERNEL next year, and I have heard several rumors making the rounds which are 100 per cent false.

I have not been "fired" and I have not quit. I am dropping from the editor's post at the usual time. The end of my year is up, that's all.

I did not apply for editor next year because I didn't want to, and why I didn't want to are my own personal reasons.

In some of the letters printed on today's editorial page are several mentioning "censorship" of THE KERNEL, and I would like to take this opportunity for setting the record straight. During the major portion of this year, the policy of THE KERNEL has been 100 per cent the policy of its editor. Although I sometimes received criticisms or comments after publication—which is fair enough practice in any man's country—there were no restrictions whatsoever before the paper was published. This is certainly a liberal enough policy, and KERNEL editors have always been proud of the trust put in their judgment.

This "freedom of the press," if that is what you want to call it, has for many years been granted THE KERNEL by the director of student publications who, by action of the Board of Trustees (October, 1937) is held personally responsible for THE KERNEL, and everything that appears in it.

In the future, however, we are informed, this policy will not be carried out to the extent which it has been in the past. For about the past month, the judgment of the student editor has not been considered final, and it will not be so in the future. The director of publications has announced that he plans to exercise more fully the powers of regulation given him by the Board of Trustees.

These powers of regulation could conceivably extend to a requirement that all editorial matter be submitted for approval—but to date they have not been exercised to that extent. In the past month there have been several paragraphs cut out of an editorial, several letters which have not been allowed to run, and occasional "advice" to the editor to moderate this, or to state that differently. This—as far as it has gone—has been more regulation than there has been in the past four years of THE KERNEL at least. Although it perhaps is not as great a faculty participation as there is at some other schools, it—as well as the recent ruling which abolished the Senior Edition—is clear enough evidence that THE KERNEL is no longer "100 per cent student operated."

Since it has been decided that in the future, where the judgment of the faculty adviser and the judgment of the student editor conflict, the adviser's opinion will be followed, it might be valuable to observe the points where the editor's judgment this year was questioned. The main cases have been: (1) An editorial protesting the faculty's ruling on the SGA amendment; (2) One suggesting revision of a University ruling; (3) Two editorials, written at the height of the anti-labor feeling, in which we presented labor's side of the controversy; (4) Publishing a SGA welfare committee's investigation of the residence halls, before the report was submitted to the faculty; (5) An article which almost involved the paper in a libel suit; and (6) generally, the "destructive" or fault-finding tenor of the editorial page in general.

Of these, one—the allegedly libelous piece—should not have gotten in the paper. But as for the others, and for the general trouble-hunting spirit, we are not a bit ashamed. We would run every one of them again tomorrow if the occasion came up.

Under the new system we might not have been allowed to print some of them—at least, if we had, it would have been after a long talk with the faculty adviser and probably the changing of some language here and there, so they would not be so "outspoken."

Perhaps this is justifiable, perhaps not. At any rate, we know it would take a great deal of the "kick" out of editing any man's paper.

It is the same general feeling, I would say, that caused such a lack of interest in petitioning for the student legislature this spring, after the administration's stand on the degree to which student government will be allowed to function on its own judgment.

On the whole, THE KERNEL this year has been under a handicap. Where we usually had—before the war—30 to 40 members on the staff, the past few months we have been working with only 17. We have had to do many things which were not the best journalism because we didn't have the staff available to do them right.

The people next year will have a hard time of it too, and I'd like to pause a minute on the way out to ask the people who have dealings with THE KERNEL to consider the big job the folks have to do with limited facilities, and not to get so wrought up when their stories do not get in exactly the way they want them.

So that about winds up my term as editor, and I have to leave now. Although I still have a thousand things to say, I only have room to say thanks to everyone who has helped make this year's KERNEL—in spite of all the trouble we have had—a world of fun to do: to Johnny Carrico, Wynne McKinney, Jim Brown, Bob Meagher, and Allenby Winer, now all in the armed forces somewhere; the folks back in the news room—Jim Woodbridge, Pat Snider, Betty Pugh, Harold Winn, and Roy Steinfurt; the hard-working but little-credited boys in the print shop—Jim Carroll, LeGrand Hatcher, Kay Jones, John Disney, and Ed Swift; the one-deadline-a-week people in the Kentuckian office; all the other people who have dropped in on press days or nights to gripe with us and laugh with us and pass on the latest rumors.

And to everyone else, it's goodbye and thanks for listening.

—BOB AMMONS

Sorry—Out Of Space

We ran out of space today. We had seven more letters about the Senior Edition which will not get in some other time perhaps.—Editor.

Why? Some one doesn't want to take the trouble to censor the editor.

The alumnae and townspeople do not understand that the paper is the Senior Edition—that is the explanation given the staff and stuents.

As for the alumnae, there has always been a senior edition. Surely they haven't forgotten that. And the townspeople—can't they enjoy a little fun, too?

Unless better reasons than the above can be given for abolishing the senior edition of THE KERNEL, I and most of the student body, still want it.

Largest number of letters received by THE KERNEL since the much discussed O'Bannon controversy two years ago flooded the office this week as student sent in protests against the recent abolition of the Senior Edition.

Space restrictions have forced the omission of a few; others we have been asked not to run because they were confused as to the degree to which THE KERNEL is regulated by the director of publications, and the director felt that the charges that the policy of the paper is "dictated" or is conducted "undemocratically" were not based on fact.—THE EDITOR

'Angrily Protests'

To The Editor of The Kernel:

I am using this letter as a means of angrily protesting against what I regard as a gross violation of students' right in the recent decision of Dr. Neil Plummer, director of student publications, to discontinue publication of the annual senior edition.

In his proclamation of explanation, the good Doctor states that the Senior Edition has "been a hasty thrown together paper edited by a handful of students." If this is true, then I must say that last year's Senior Edition was the doggone best paper I have ever observed and personally I would sincerely recommend to all editors of all newspapers that they publish their papers in the same hurried manner.

The Senior Edition is a grand spring tonic for what ails us. Does it not prick the inflated egos of some, stir others from their lethargic acceptance of the bad with the good, cause us to laugh at the stupendously ridiculous, and upset the dignified stances of the humbugs, the fatheads, and the blunderers?

I realize that there have always been some rather thin skinned people among the student body, the faculty, and the University administration who, to be damned blunt, "just couldn't take it." I realize that those people have become increasingly irritated with each new issue of the Senior Edition. But I believe that to the great majority of the students the paper was a lot of fun intended for a grand laugh in all circles.

Like the editor of The Kernel, I also realize and am equally conscious of the futility of this article—but I could not sit idly by and watch this incident without at least loudly protesting against the rank injustice of this uncalled for action by the University administration.

WE WANT OUR SENIOR EDITION!!

For years the Kernel has been published by and for the student body. It has been a tradition that each year there would be one publication in which the senior journalism students have the opportunity of contributing their last words before leaving school. Why is the Publications Board afraid to sponsor this edition—why rob the students of their biggest laughs of the year?

Varsity-Town's HAND-WOVEN
SHETLANDS

WOVEN OF IMPORTED WOOLS
BY OLD WORLD CRAFTSMEN

We can weave a really grand tale about these Hand-Woven Shetlands. They're soft . . . luxurious . . . fine! They have a texture only slow, careful hand loom can provide. And as a "plus" to their perfection, Varsity-Town modeled them in casual "Dartmouth"—the smartest "three" on record. The colorings are rich and rare. For style and quality like this you probably think "I'll pay plenty." You OUGHT to, but you DON'T . . . these Hand-Woven Shetlands are only . . .

The Wildcat tennis team, which meets Notre Dame at South Bend today in the last game of its Northern swing, suffered an unexpected defeat Tuesday afternoon on the home courts . . . Not only was the 8-1 licking at the hands of the Miami (Florida) University squad unexpected, but the match was unexpected also . . . Last October, Dr. H. H. Downing, Cat coach, answered Miami's negotiations for a match, but he never received an acknowledgement of acceptance . . . Thinking the match would not be played, Dr. Downing was preparing his racquetters for their current trip when he received word Monday that the Miami team would arrive here Tuesday . . . There was nothing the Cats could do but play the Floridians.

"Ole Man Mose" (Lieutenant Frank Moseley now) visited the campus Monday for the first time since his departure for navy duty . . . The Wildcat assistant grid mentor is on leave of absence from the University and is occupied with coaching in the navy's physical-ed program at the University of Georgia at present . . . Mose has applied for sea duty and hopes to go into active service aboard ship soon.

Explaining the 19-5 setback suffered by his baseballers at the hands of Ohio State Monday, Coach Bill Black said, "We made six errors and they five, but ours came at times when it hurt and their's came when it didn't cost 'em' . . . That much was evident from the fact that the Buckeyes scored 19 runs on only 15 hits, while the Wildcats tallied five times on eight safeties . . . The diamond squad, which was too small at the outset, has now dwindled to only 13 men . . . Noah Mullin is believed to be ineligible and Gus Green gave up the sport to devote more time to his studies.

We think it was a good thing that the Southeastern conference put the foot down on the move to make freshmen eligible for varsity athletics . . . Lots of freshies flunk out of school in the first year and if these guys were allowed to play in varsity athletics, every rough-neck and his brother would come to college just to play one year.

Vols Invade 'Cat Lair For Two - Game Series

By BOB ADAIR

Kernel Sports Editor

Most people thought the feud between the South's two most bitter rivals, Kentucky and Tennessee, was over for the year when the Vols were eliminated in the Southeastern conference basketball tournament. But most people were wrong, because the Vols invade the Wildcat lair today to open a two-game series with Coach Bill Black's unpredictable baseball team. The two teams are scheduled to clash at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and will meet again tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

Smarting from their worst defeat of the season, a 19-5 shellacking spread on by Ohio State at Columbus Monday, the Wildcats have practiced three days this week in preparation for the Tennessee series. But at best, the "Black Cats" have shown little improvement in these drill sessions. They committed six errors at Columbus, but if that performance could be compared to Wednesday's practice, they looked great against the Buckeyes. Wednesday afternoon, the infield couldn't field even the easiest type of ground balls and not once did the Cats go through the whole infield warm-up without an error. Coach Black finally gave up and sent the boys to the showers.

Black indicated that Jim "Christy" Mathewson would get the starting nod for today's game, but gave no indication as to what hurler would twirl 'em at the Vols tomorrow.

If Marvin "Big Train" Akers and Foster "Tobacco Kid" Spence don't have to be called upon for relief work today, one of the other will be the likely choice tomorrow.
